

Tyres have to meet rolling, wet grip norms

From October, new tyres meant for passenger cars, trucks and buses will have to meet the defined standards for rolling resistance, wet grip and rolling sound emissions, an official statement said. Rolling resistance of a tyre has an impact on vehicle's fuel efficiency while wet grip capability influences braking performance of tyres under wet conditions and boost vehicular safety, the statement said.